

Cats

Cats love falling asleep. They can sleep up to 16 to 18 hours every day to save their energy. That is about twice as long as you usually sleep at night. Additionally, cats spend a lot of time licking their fur to keep it clean. Their tongues are rough like sandpaper, not smooth like ours. Their rough tongues help keep their fur clean. Cats can see very well at night. While we use a torch at night to see, cats can see in situations that are 6 times darker. Their smelling sense is also very strong, which is 11 times stronger in cats than in humans.

Answer the following questions.

Q1. How much can cats sleep?

A: _____

Q2. Why do they sleep for so long?

A: _____

Q3. What do rough tongues help in?

A: _____

Q4. We use a ____ at night to see.

A: _____

Q5. How strong is a cat's sense of smell as compared to humans?

A: _____